The microwaves are electromagnetic radiations that are also present in nature in the form of light waves (e.g. sunlight) and that, inside the oven, go through food from any directions and warm up the molecules of water, fat, and sugar. The heat is produced very quickly only in food, while the container warms up only indirectly for heat transfer from hot food. This prevents the food from adhering to the container, therefore it is possible to use very little fat or to avoid its use during the cooking process. The microwave cooking is deemed to be very healthy and dietetic since it is low fat. Furthermore, in comparison with the traditional systems, as cooking is at a lower temperature, the food dehydrates less, does not lose its nutrients and preserves its flavour more.
